

Prof. T. M. Smith, of Case School of Applied Science, Cleveland, Ohio, was fatally injured while conducting one of his chemical classes through the river blast furnace. He was caught in the furnace elevator and terribly crushed.

---

A terrific gale prevailed in the English channel, causing great inconvenience to shipping.